Israel grabs wrong plane in rebel hunt

Associated Press

Israeli warplanes diverted an Arab-owned jetliner to a military field in Israel Friday night in an apparent attempt to capture some Palestinian guerrilla leaders. They got the wrong aircraft.

The plane, Iraqi Airlines Flight 006A, was held for two hours while Israeli troops with machine guns searched the aircraft and checked off the passengers against a series of names and pictures.

Afterward, the airliner was allowed to return to Beirut with all 74 passengers and eight crew members aboard. Palestinian officials said there were no guerrillas on the flight.

The Israelis apparently mistook the Caravelle jet on hire from Lebanon's Middle East Airlines for Iraqi Airlines Flight 006, which was due out of Beirut for Baghdad at 11:30 a.m. PDT.

Flight 006 was delayed in arriving from Vienna and 006A, a special charter flight carrying Iraqis home from a Lebanese summer holiday, took off at 1:45 a.m. PDT. It was diverted by Israeli jets that swooped in over Beirut at about the time the delayed flight was to have departed.

BEIRUT sources said that during the two hours on the ground, the Israelis asked the pilot and others on the Caravelle whether

Spacemen snap sun spectacular

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab's astronauts Friday photographed a "truly spectacular" violent solar eruption of gaseous material larger than the mass of the earth.

Alan Bean, Owen Garriott and Jack Lousma, taking life easy on their first day off from 14 days of orbital research, viewed the rare solar event through their powerful sun-watching telescopes.

Two experimental spiders, Arabella and Anita, shared a house-sized bite of the pilots' file mignon, but Garriott said he wasn't sure they were eating it.

Ground controllers said the astronauts may have to feed the arachnids droplets of their own blood to keep them alive during the mission. The blood would come from a biomedical sample the crewmen took.

Gulf, Goodyear bare illegal contributions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Officials of the Gulf Oil Corp. and Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. made illegal corporate contributions to President Nixon's re-election campaign and have received refunds, it was disclosed Friday.

In separate disclosures, Gulf was acknowledged to have donated $100,000 of corporate funds in the campaign and Goodyear to have donated $40,000.

A Gulf spokesman said his company's contribution was made under pressure from Nixon fund-raisers but Goodyear Chairman Russell DeYoung said his company was not pressured into making a contribution and had expected nothing in return.

The two firms were the third and fourth to acknowledge making illegal contributions to the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President, which was headed by former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans. Goodyear said Stans was not told its contribution was from corporate funds.

has urged firms or individuals who made illegal contributions to report them voluntarily. Their cooperation will be considered in deciding what charges will be brought against them, Cox has said. According to some estimates the number of firms and individuals involved may run into the hundreds.

The illegal Gulf contribution, made by a vice president in two $50,000 payments, was disclosed by the Re-election Finance Committee.

Gulf Board Chairman B. R. Dorsey said the money was given "in response to persistent requests" and "enormous pressure" from Nixon campaign representatives.

The donations were revealed in copies of letters exchanged between the committee's treasurer, Paul Barrick, and Floyd Mellott, a Pittsburgh lawyer representing Gulf.

The letters did not make clear whether the contrib-

Growers, taxpayers both benefit

'Infamous Brannan farm bill' signed

By EDWIN DALE JR. New York Times Service WASHINGTON — It took nearly a quarter of a century, but Charles F. Brannan was a happy man Friday.

It was Brannan, as secretary of agriculture under President Harry S. Truman, who first proposed in 1949 the radically different method of supporting farm income that finally reached fruition in the farm bill signed Friday by President Nixon.

Brannan, now 69 years old, is general counsel of the National Farmers Union with offices in Denver. Asked in a telephone interview if he was pleased by the new bill, he replied, "I sure am." "I've had a lot of fun watching it this year," he said. "Back then it was called the 'infamous Brannan plan.'"

As a member of the House of Representatives, Richard M. Nixon voted with the majority of the House against a provision of the then-pending farm bill that contained a Brannan-plan experiment.

When he signed the bill Friday, Nixon said it should spur full production, help fight inflation, protect farmers against risks and ultimately benefit taxpayers and consumers.

While complaining about some provisions of the massive four-year farm and food stamp bill, Nixon said it "represents a realistic compromise" between his administration and Congress on several key economic issues.

"Though it falls short of the high standards I have set for reforming farm legislation and eventually moving the government out of agriculture," the President said, "it does provide a constructive framework for encouraging the expansion of farm production."

The new approach contained in the farm bill can be described in these terms:

For 40 years the government has supported farm prices, not farm incomes. It has done this by restricting acreage to avoid oversupply, and by buying up part of the crop when necessary to keep the price from dropping.

The new plan has several advantages, in the views of its advocates.

If production is high and prices drop, consumers get the full benefit, though as taxpayers there is a cost to them.

Farmers, with an assured income, can safely plant all their acreage. This is crucial now when maximum production is needed to bring down soaring food prices.

With prices high, as at present — and many experts believe they will remain well above the new "target" prices at least through 1975 — the new program is virtually costless to the government and the taxpayer.

And the program is simple and does not require complicated mechanisms such as the present "bread tax" on wheat, payments to farmers for idling acres, export subsi-

4 more bodies dug up; toll of sex killings 23

By FRANK E. GRIFFIS

HOUSTON (UPI) — Two teen-agers, pointing out mounds of black dirt in a pine forest and white sand in a marshland Gulf Coast beach, Friday led police to more graves and the bodies and bones of four young boys killed in a three-year spree of sex and sadism.

The death toll reached 23, and investigators said it would go higher — unless strong tides or hungry wolves had carried away the remains of more victims.

W. L. Young, a Houston police detective, said officers expect to find at least four more bodies on the beach, which could make the crime the worst mass murder in U.S. history.

"IF THEY buried as many as they say, there will be four left on the beach," Young said. "They said six in all (on the beach)."

Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, chain-smoking and wild-eyed, and David Brooks, 18, calm, quiet and handcuffed, pointed out the graves. Both confessed they were involved with a bachelor friend, Dean Allen Corril, 33, in the murders.

The search stopped at nightfall Friday, after three days, because of rising tides from the Gulf of Mexico. Two bodies were unearthed in the morning under tall pine trees near Broaddus in east Texas, and two more were located under scrubby grass on the beach near High Island, Tex., 35 miles east of Galveston.

Police suspended the hunt for more victims until Monday because they said seawater would cover the area most of the weekend.

"I don't honestly know if I can find any more," Henley told officers.

AFTER searchers discovered the two bodies in the sand, they dug in several other areas without finding bones. They did find some plastic and nylon rope similar to that used to wrap some of the bodies found earlier.

"It's what looks like what came off a body. The body could have washed off or the wolves could have gotten it," said police Sgt. David Mullican of suburban Pasadena.

U.S. demands Agnew papers

New York Times Service

BALTIMORE — Federal investigators Friday subpoenaed the records of Vice President Agnew's two-year administration as governor of Maryland and "any and all" financial records dealing with his campaign for the governorship.

Morris Radoff, Maryland state archivist, said that some 130 boxes of letters, records and materials from the Agnew administration were in storage.

Federal investigators said that they would arrive Monday to begin studying the records.

THE subpoena for Agnew's campaign records called for reports dating to Jan. 1, 1962, but Willard A. Morris, administrator of the state Board of Elections, said that the only campaign reports held by the state dealt with Agnew's 1966 governorship campaign.

He said he had certain knowledge that the records from the 1962 election in which Agnew was elected county executive of Baltimore County had been destroyed.

Those records, which would have been under the supervision of county officials, were routinely destroyed, Morris said he had been told.

A county official, Charles Prior, said he had been directed by U.S. Attorney George Beall not to destroy any of the 1962 reports if any should remain.

THE subpoena calling for the records dealing with Agnew's term as governor came as a surprise. Previously, the government had seemed to be

Nixon held irate over Agnew quiz

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon, preparing his Watergate counterattack in a half-hour television speech to be delivered the middle of next week, was reported Friday to have "hit the ceiling" when he learned Vice President Agnew was under federal criminal investigation.

They said he approached a teller, produced a bag with one hand and put his other hand in a bulging coat pocket. He demanded, "Give me your money," the teller reported.

Detectives said the teller filled the bag with $1,196, and the suspect took the bag and walked out.

Sheriff's investigators and the FBI said he may be the same man who held up a bank in Montebello last week.

should go ahead with the televised news conference that he held the next day.

Agnew told reporters he had informed Nixon of his intention to hold a news conference and the President "made no objection."

White House Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren, referring to the report that Nixon was angered by Agnew's legal problems, said Friday that "from the information I have, there is nothing that would lead me to believe the report is accurate."

The White House maintained its cool, arms-length position on the affair Friday, withholding any expression of full presidential support for Agnew. Warren said only that the President "has had and has confidence in the vice president."

NATIONAL*Appeal court won't order bombing halt

Combined News Services

PORLTAND, Maine — Three U.S. Court of Appeals judges denied an appeal Friday by Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., who sought a hearing on a suit calling for an end to U.S. bombing in Cambodia. Judges Frank Coffin, Lovin Campbell and Edward McAntee upheld a U.S. District Court decision Wednesday that the court had no jurisdiction over the case now that Congress has voted to cut off bombing funds Aug. 15. A similar suit has been filed by Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., and four airmen, but her case, which has alternately received favorable and unfavorable court action was dealt a crucial setback Thursday when Chief Justice Warren Burger refused to call the Supreme Court into special session to consider the matter.

Lending rate rises to 9 $\frac{1}{4}$ %

NEW YORK — Many of the nation's major banks Friday announced they planned to increase their prime lending rate for the 12th time this year, raising it from 9 to 9 $\frac{1}{4}$  per cent, a new peak. Treasury Secretary George Shultz condoned the increase, saying it would help cool inflation by inhibiting business borrowing for expansion. The quarter-point increase in the prime, or minimum borrowing fee banks charge their most credit-worthy corporate customers, will take effect Monday. The prime rate was only 6 per cent early this year.

FHA loan power resumes

WASHINGTON — The Federal Housing Administration Friday received interim authority to resume issuing loans to homebuyers and promptly announced a hike in the maximum interest rate from 7 per cent to 7.5. President Nixon signed the congressionally approved legislation at his Camp David, Md., retreat. The FHA's authority to issue the loans expired June 30, making it more difficult for families with little cash to finance the purchase of a home.

Plugging tax 'escape' urged

WASHINGTON — A congressional agency recommended changing the bankruptcy law Friday to prevent wealthy people from escaping payment of overdue federal taxes by going into bankruptcy. The recommendation was made by the General Accounting Office, Congress' watchdog agency, which said that method of tax evasion is not used often but "the dollar amounts in the individual cases are material." The GAO made public a review of internal revenue service policies toward the collection of delinquent accounts. Overdue taxes totalled about $1.9 billion on June 30, 1972.

INTERNATIONAL*Chilean transport strike ultimatum

SANTIAGO — Chile's leftist government has given striking truckers until Sunday afternoon to return to work or face harsh reprisals. The government said Friday night it would use all its legal powers to force the truckers to end their crippling 16-day walkout "in order to safeguard with the utmost energy the national security and the economy."

The 50,000 truck owners went on strike July 26. Lack of transport has caused severe shortages of food and fuel in Chile. Gasoline is rationed and black market prices for food are soaring.

Dollar gains again

LONDON — The U.S. dollar Friday bounded to its highest levels against major European currencies for more than a month, and the price of gold tumbled. The dollar was significantly stronger against the German mark, the French franc and the British pound. The improvement was attributed to recent increases in U.S. interest rates, which make gold speculation less profitable, and to the growing belief the dollar has been oversold during its long decline through the Watergate hearings.

Rhodesia whites criticized

OTTAWA — The Commonwealth heads of government agreed Friday that the black majority in Rhodesia should gain political control soon. But their agreement stopped well short of a call for Commonwealth action on Rhodesia, which had been advanced by some of the Caribbean and black African leaders. Britain, which regards the Rhodesian question as an internal matter, opposed the plan.

People in the News*Hunt for boy widens despite hoax threat

Combined News Service

The search for a young boy crying for help over a citizens' band radio expanded from New Mexico to Arizona Friday despite indications the transmission could be a hoax.

Searchers in Albuquerque, N.M., said they will look through the weekend for the youth and then stop. "Win, lose or draw."

The pleading voice of the child — who has told searchers he is in an overturned pickup truck in mountainous terrain — has been monitored since Tuesday by radio operators from California to Mississippi.

The search has been concentrated in central New Mexico, although a resident of Phoenix, Ariz., reported Friday he had picked up the boy's transmissions.

Frank Laughlin told authorities the boy said his name was David Peak and he was seven years old. Laughlin quoted the boy as saying he was without water or food although a river was nearby. He also said his father was hurt but not seriously.

The information supplied by Laughlin contrasted with that he had given searchers earlier this week. In previous transmissions, the boy had said his name was Larry and that his father was dead.

While the search continued in central New Mexico, similar operations were resumed in southeast Arizona's Chiricahua Mountains.

No confirmed radio contact has been made with the boy by New Mexico searchers since he said, "Help, Blue Eyes," early Friday. Blue Eyes is the code name of an Albuquerque citizen's band operator who has talked with the boy.

Officials have admitted all along that the messages may be a hoax, but they have continued looking anyway. Planes have flown over the area southeast of Albuquerque many times and more than 150 men have been involved in the ground search.

It has been extremely difficult to pinpoint the location of the transmissions because of interference from other radios and because of atmospheric conditions that caused the signals to "skip" great distances.

Settlement

The lawyer who will work out divorce proceedings for Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton arrived in Rome Friday to confer with the estranged couple.

Secretaries to Miss Taylor and Burton met the lawyer, Aaron Fosch, at Leonardo Da Vinci Airport and he was driven to the villa of producer Carlo Ponti, where Burton has been staying.

No complaint

A deputy district attorney said Friday in Palm Springs that no criminal complaints are planned against actor-singer Frank Sinatra for an alleged assault on a Salt Lake City man.

"A successful prosecution is not reasonably foreseeable because of completely conflicting statements," said Riverside County Deputy Dist. Atty. Karl Lee.

Frank Weinstock, 32, had said two friends of Sinatra attacked him May 5 in a hotel after he resisted what he said were advances by Sinatra toward his wife. Weinstock said he suffered a chipped tooth, a scratched face and a bruise under his eye. Police had been investigating the incident for several months.

Differences

Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas left Seattle, Wash., for a three-week visit to Communist China on Friday and defended the high court as an arena for "the clash of views."

In a sharply worded statement released Thursday in Washington, Douglas accused his eight fellow justices of acting beyond the law in blocking his Aug. 4 order to halt U.S. bombing in Cambodia.

Before departing with his wife, Cathy, Douglas told a newsman at the airport: "Other judges have different views. The life of the court, though, is the life of disagreement and the clash of views. There's nothing new about it. That's the way it should be."

Dissident

Andrei Sinyavsky, a Soviet dissident writer, arrived in Paris Friday to end his residency in the Soviet Union where he had been imprisoned for anti-Communist activities, the French television station said.

The Soviet author arrived from an unknown destination at Paris' Gare du Nord railroad station accompanied by his wife and two children.

Sinyavsky will settle in France and become a professor at the Sorbonne University in Paris. There were no immediate details as to the circumstances of Sinyavsky's departure from the Soviet Union or as to where he was staying in the French capital.

Sinyavsky was arrested along with a friend, Yuli Daniel, in the Soviet Union in September 1965 for allegedly smuggling literary works out of the country for publication abroad under pen names. He served five years of a seven-year term.

Inspector

Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif., Friday received permission to make an outside inspection of controversial improvements to President Nixon's Western White House at San Clemente.

Waldie, involved in a walkathon from the Mexican border to the San Fernando Valley in a voter-recognition drive in his campaign for governor, made the request Thursday night. He sent a telegram to Western White House officials asking to tour the San Clemente residence Monday so he could inspect what he called "publicly financed" improvements.

Waldie, estimating $700,000 or more in public money was spent at San Clemente, said his goal was to "see if criticism leveled at the expenditures is justified."

"After reviewing the report sent to the Congress by the GSA (General Services Administration), I must assume the improvements and the expenditures at San Clemente are excessive and perhaps even improper."

Waldie listed himself as a cosponsor of legislation to bar government agencies from making permanent improvements, repairs and installations to any residences not owned or leased by the federal government.

Controversial

Billy Graham is bringing a radiantly new kind of crusade to Britain later this month, and already his "Spree '73" idea is under heavy criticism.

Clergymen and laymen call the $600,000 crusade, among other things, a spiritual luxury and hit-and-run evangelism.

Organizers say the event will be an "investment in eternity."

During part of the crusade, delegates aged 14 years and up will blitz the streets of London with religious salesmanship.

The Church of England's weekly magazine expressed concern about what the delegates will learn. It said the Billy Graham Association gave "no adequate reply" to its queries.

Sprey — a name derived from "spiritual emphasis" — was patterned after Graham's highly successful Expo 72 in Dallas.

"It is wealthy Christians in the West indulging in five days of spiritual luxury," said the Rev. Philip Crowe, one of Sprey's most vociferous critics.

Sprey was arrested along with a friend, Yuli Daniel, in the Soviet Union in September 1965 for allegedly smuggling literary works out of the country for publication abroad under pen names.

He served five years of a seven-year term.

"So I decided, make it an open house for all who want to attend," Mrs. Hoffman said in an interview from her bed in Room 119. The open house will be held there and in the corridor.

"After that I don't care," she said. "I'll be ready."

She said her medical insurance expires at year's end, and "I want to die before that time comes. I don't want to be a burden for any of my family."

Air ace

Family, friends and the Air Force paid final tribute to World War I flying ace Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker in Columbus, Ohio, Friday.

In a 15-minute memorial service, about 100 persons listened to a eulogy which praised Rickenbacker as a man "with deep faith and conviction in all respects of life."

Rickenbacker, who shot down 26 enemy aircraft in seven months, died July 23 in Switzerland at the age of 82. He suffered an apparent heart attack.

Overhead cost

Is the Vincent Thomas Bridge paid for yet? How long will they charge a 25 cent toll to cross it? S.S., Long Beach.

The bridge, connecting Terminal Island and San Pedro, has a $21 million debt and when it's paid, probably around the year 2000, the state legislature might decide to drop the toll, according to an accounting officer for the state Toll Bridge Administration in Sacramento. Of that $21 million, $11 million is owed to the State Transportation Fund; $6 million to various bond holders; $2 million to the City of Los Angeles and another $2 million to Los Angeles County. The bridge, which opened Nov. 17, 1963, cost about $26 million.

Matter of principal

Some time ago, I made a large payment on the principal of my mortgage. I recently noticed that I'm paying the same amount of premium for my mortgage insurance as I was on the original amount of the loan, which is twice as much as my current debt. I was told that nothing can be done to lower the premium. Is this true? J.L., Los Alamitos.

Yes. Mortgage insurance is a type of term insurance. You agree to pay a specific monthly premium for as long as the policy is in effect. When you first took out mortgage insurance, the amount of the premium was determined by your age and the size of the loan. Your premium stays the same even though the amount of the loan decreases either through regular monthly payments or a lump sum paid on the principal. This system also benefits your family because your term insurance premiums don't increase as you get older even though your chances of dying are greater, insurance men note.

Film flam

About a year ago, my daughter participated in the finals of the California Dairy Princess Contest. Michael A. Jeskin of California News Features in Century City wrote her after the contest offering to sell her a copy of the 2½ minute long film his company made which showed highlights of the contest. We sent the $40 he requested and his company cashed our check but never sent the film. We've written him about this but got no answers and when we can call, we can't get beyond his paging service. Can you help us? E.L., Paramount.

No. In mid-June Jeskin told us he had deposited your money for a time then sent it back to you because of a lack of response to the film offer. At our urging, he agreed to check his records and let us know the date he returned your money. We didn't hear from him again, although we called his paging service four times in two weeks leaving messages for him to return our calls. He did not answer our letter asking him to send us a copy of the canceled check he used for your refund.

L.B. man killed in leap to elude ticket

A 20-year-old Long Beach man died late Friday after suffering massive head injuries when he jumped 35 feet from the San Diego Freeway onto the Los Coyotes Flood Control while attempting to elude a drunk driving charge.

Highway Patrol officials said Duane Blanchard Ocon, of 3458 Carfax Ave., was southbound on the freeway near Bellflower Boulevard when he was stopped by officer T. J. Miller for an alleged unsafe lane change.

Miller said the youth had just failed a field sobriety test and was about to be placed under arrest when he suddenly bolted and ran. The officer said Ocon jumped over the freeway railing and nose-dived into the cement flood control.

Ocon was pronounced dead about 9:25 p.m. in Long Beach Community Hospital, officers said.

Prof. fined on LSD charges

A Long Beach State University professor who tried to send a hollow philosophy book containing LSD tablets to a friend in Morocco was fined $2,500 and placed on four years probation Friday for furnishing dangerous drugs.

The sentence of Dr. Stephen Joel Noren, 34, of 25199 Adelanto Ave., Laguna Niguel, was pronounced in the Superior Court of Judge John A. Arguelles, where Noren last month was convicted of the charge.

The judge pointed out Friday that the sentence sparing the defendant a jail term followed the "strong recommendation" of a probation report.

Noren was arrested after police said he was linked to a package which was opened by employees in the university's mail room. The employees were seeking the sender's name, intending to return the package, because it required state-paid postage of $5.88, officers said.

The associate philosophy professor told probation officers he was sending the drug to a psychologist living in Agadir, Morocco, who had asked it as a favor. Noren and the psychologist were friends when both lived in the Topanga Canyon area, the probation report stated.

A second charge against Noren, of possessing dangerous drugs for sale, was dismissed on motion of Deputy District Attorney Denis K. Petty.

Part of international heroin ring

2 drug sellers sentenced

Two men, one of them from Paramount, Friday were sentenced in Los Angeles to terms of five-to-15 years in prison for distributing heroin.

Authorities linked the men to an international ring believed to be handling heroin worth $3-million annually. They said Michael A. De Anda, Long Beach restaurateur and film actor, who became a fugitive last month following conviction for possessing heroin, also is believed connected with the ring.

Sentenced Friday were James Cosio Aguilar, 48, of 7019 San Carlos St., Paramount, and 31-year-old Jose Luis Castro, of Los Angeles.

Aguilar's wife, 17-year-old Carol Sue, also was sentenced by Superior Court Judge Benjamin Landis. She was sent to county jail for six months for "running the heroin by ear."

All three were convicted last month on various heroin charges. Castro was arrested in April, 1972, after a gun battle with police. Aguilar was arrested two months later and police reported finding heroin on his person and in an apartment he maintained at 15505 Cornuta St., Bellflower.

De Anda jumped bail while awaiting sentencing in his case last month. Los Angeles police said Friday they think he may now be operating as part of the heroin ring in Mexico.

The ring smuggles heroin from France and Peru through Mexico to the U.S. authorities said.

'Stab in back,' Chavez says

UFW-Teamster peace talks fail

BURLINGAME (UPI) — Farm union leader Cesar Chavez, claiming a "stab in the back" from the Teamsters Union, Friday walked out of truce talks between the two unions over organizing California field workers.

Teamster officials said, however, it was the result of a misunderstanding, and the talks would be resumed.

What triggered the Chavez walkout was a report from Delano that the Teamsters had signed contracts with 26 grape growers against whom Chavez' United Farm Workers union is on strike.

AS THE talks were breaking up, two members of Chavez' union were shot and seriously wounded Friday in a vineyard east of Earlimart, in the San Joaquin Valley where union pickets clashed with workers picking grapes.

Sheriff's investigators said no deputies were involved in the shooting and that no arrests were made. Workers in the field said the pickets fired shots first, but the pickets denied it.

Paul Saludado and Marcelino Barajas, both in their early 20s, were reported in satisfactory condition at a medical clinic in Delano. Saludado's head was grazed by a shot and Barajas was hit in the hip with a .22 caliber bullet.

Tulare County sheriff's deputies said a dozen shots were fired after UFW pickets entered the field at Missakian Ranch and overturned boxes. Non-striking workers in the field said they were fired at first.

JOHN BANK, a spokesman for Chavez' union, said three women on a picket line south of Earlimart were run down by a car driven by a private patrolmen. He said Alicia Terraza, Lydia Buendia and Leticia Maldonado were taken to a Bakersfield hospital for treatment.

William Grami, chief negotiator for the Teamsters in the farm labor talks, said representatives of his union in Delano had signed with the grape growers "contrary to instructions." He said the contracts would be repudiated because they were signed without proper authority of the union.

Chavez stormed out of the meeting in a hotel near the San Francisco airport, saying there was "no use sticking around."

The Teamsters "were not talking in good faith," he said. "We have been stabbed in the back."

But national representatives of the AFL-CIO, who were participating in the meetings on the side of the UFW, remained in the conference room with Grami and other Teamster leaders.

GRAMI said later the talks had been "very productive" up to the time Chavez abruptly left. He said he was confident that they would be resumed "when we get our problem straightened out."

The Teamsters and Chavez' union have repeatedly clashed in the state's farming regions over which union will represent field hands. Contracts which Chavez won with table grape growers after a nationwide boycott three years ago expired this year.

The UFW was unable to get these contracts renewed, and accused the Teamsters of attempting to undercut his AFL-CIO union by signing "sweetheart" contracts with the growers.

Chavez was believed to be headed for Delano to meet with his followers in the fields, where thousands of arrests have been made as a result of picketing and demonstrations.

Marines in record maneuver

By ROBERT GORE
Staff Writer

TWENTYNINE PALMS

In what a command officer termed a dress rehearsal for a possible military emergency in the Middle East, the Marine Corps Friday began operation Alkali Canyon 73 at their desert base here.

The Marines billed the maneuver as the largest ever exercise involving both regulars (5,700) and reserves (3,400).

Brig. Gen. Arthur J. Poillon, chief of the major unit in Alkali Canyon, said the objectives are to evaluate desert tactics and equipment performance in the arid environment.

Gen. Poillon also stressed the importance of the total integration of regular and reserve detachments into one fighting force. He added that the exercise also would test the feasibility of combining U.S. and foreign forces.

Major operations are scheduled to begin Sunday, after Friday's combined arms exercise. This came after a week of conditioning and training. Next Saturday is to be the final day at the 922-square-mile base, where temperatures range from 65 to 115.

Poillon, who commands the 8th Marine Amphibious Brigade, said a hypothetical situation was created for Alkali Canyon.

The scenario involves a small, coastal nation that is friendly to the U.S. This nation is surrounded by enemy and neutral countries.

This friendly nation, the general said, has had aid from the U.S. in developing its natural resources. The enemies have begun saber-rattling with an envious eye on the resources, claiming the borders of the small country were historically vague.

Alkali begins as the enemies have invaded our ally. The exercise was planned to counter a sophisticated enemy," Poillon noted. The mock battles will test the Marines' antiarmor and antiair warfare tactics, as well as counterattack strategy and fire support coordination.

Sea, land and air forces — virtually the entire Marine arsenal — will take part in the battle. Sea forces will be represented by amphibious assault vehicles.

The command officer, a colonel who requested that his name not be used, said, "This area is an ideal maneuver site. It is similar to desert terrain in the Middle East and the Sinai Peninsula and other desert areas, of course."

The Sinai Peninsula was a major battleground during the Six-Day War in 1967 when the Israelis defeated the Arabs.

Friday's combined arms exercise demonstrated several Marine weapons, but was highlighted by a solo performance of the corps' newest support aircraft, the AV-8A Harrier jet, which is capable of hovering and landing like a helicopter.

Also showcased was the Redeye surface-to-air missile, launched from a weapon that is about the size of a bazooka. The heat-seeking Redeye had a two-man team and completed a successful demonstration by shooting down a flying target.

AT THE time of the secret bombing order, Laird said, the U.S. was bombing both South Vietnam and Cambodia. He devised a system under which the Cambodian bombing was reported only to the President and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the South Vietnamese bombing was reported publicly. But he said he did not approve falsification of the reports that were made public. "As far as the means by which the reporting procedure was carried out, the separate report was made directly to the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff on these strikes," he said. "I approved that."

Poillon pointed out that the heavy weapons for the East Coast Marines were borrowed from local bases, thus saving the taxpayers the transportation bill. A corps spokesman said there was no immediate estimate of the cost of Alkali Canyon.

"I did approve the separate reporting procedure on the Cambodian strikes. But I did not approve at any time the falsification of any Air Force, Army or any Defense Department reports."

LAIRD acknowledged that he initiated a report — made public Thursday — in November of 1969 in which it was ordered that B52s be used to strike "cover targets" in South Vietnam while other planes were dropping bombs in Cambodia. The South Vietnamese bombings, the memo said, would provide "a resemblance to normal operations, thereby providing a creditable story for replies to press inquiries."

Laird said he had not seen the memo since 1969, and had only a hazy memory of it, but he acknowledged that in 1969, the "press was told of the targeting in South Vietnam, but the secret strikes, they were not told of."

"The recommendations as far as the memorandum is concerned, I would not deny that my initials are on it," he said.

McG data leak report probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Secret Service said Friday it was investigating reports that one of its agents passed information about Sen. George McGovern to the White House while assigned to guard the 1972 Democratic presidential candidate.

The White House, noting that the Secret Service was investigating the report, refused to discuss it.

"I don't think I should say anything from here that would interfere with that investigation," said Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren.

A Secret Service spokesman said that if the reports proved true, they would be grounds for disciplinary action.

The Washington Post said Friday it had found 24 classified memoranda that indicated seven government agencies and departments were asked by White House aides to collect potentially damaging information on leading Democrats in 1971 and 1972.

THE senior Bolton, 61, told the Milwaukee Journal Friday:

"I deny emphatically that I asked my son to give me information to turn over to the White House. He didn't do it. I didn't ask."

The son, assigned to the Secret Service office in Milwaukee, could not be located, the Journal said.

The Post said the memos were dated between January 1971 and October 1972 and involved communications between former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman and former presidential aides John Dean and Charles Colson or their assistants.

According to the paper, the memos suggested the information be leaked to newspapers or used in criminal investigations.

Laird admits dual raid records, denies falsifying

to dig into the history of the controversial raids in 1969 and 1970 and their official cover-up, said the team had been unable to find the order setting the operation into motion.

"Perhaps it was verbal," Beecher said. If so, the question of specifically what was ordered and by whom may never be answered.

The March 18 order was one of several documents demanded by the Senate Armed Services Committee, which has been investigating the bombing and other clandestine U.S. operations in Southeast Asia which were reported falsely to Congress and the public.

The main force behind the committee inquiry, Sen. Harold Hughes D-Iowa, said Friday the current U.S. bombing of Cambodia is "creating a bloodbath that is perhaps much worse than any that would happen in the aftermath of our absence."

"I did approve the separate reporting procedure on the Cambodian strikes. But I did not approve at any time the falsification of any Air Force, Army or any Defense Department reports."

Calif. air rules said too tough

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) was accused Friday of establishing a smog control program which it knows won't work in California.

Matthew S. Walker, presiding at an EPA hearing on the federal plan, told critics that the agency was obligated to do its best to comply with federal law before it could tell Congress that the law would not work.

It was the fifth in a series of hearings on the EPA's proposed regulations for cleaning up California's air by mid-1977.

Allen B. Lemmon said the state air board, on which he serves, believed the EPA should scrap its plan and endorse the state's clean air plans.

Major difference between the state and EPA proposals include:

AIRCRAFT — California would require a 90 per cent reduction from 1970 levels in emissions from aircraft. EPA regulations would require a 30 per cent reduction.

MOTORCYCLES — California proposes stricter emission standards for motorcycles without limiting the number of hours of usage. The EPA would prohibit any increase in the present number of registered motorcycles and would prohibit the use of two-cycle engines during certain daytime hours.

RATIONINGS — The EPA proposes fuel rationing, which the state opposes on grounds that it would lead to black marketing.

AUTO USE — The federal plan proposes statewide curtailment of automobile use. The state plan would limit auto use only in San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego basins.

USED CARS — The EPA would require all used car owners to buy special new antismog devices which require unleaded gasoline. The state would require them only in the South Coast Air basin, which the Los Angeles and San Diego areas. The ARB said there was too little unleaded gasoline and too few of the devices available to require them statewide.

GAS STORAGE — The state proposes strict rules for control of emissions from the marketing and storing of gasoline. The EPA does not.

Lemmon said the EPA is mistaken to seek curbs on automobiles before mass transit plans have been developed.

Ease air standards, says Byrd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd said Friday unless the government rolls back some of its clean air standards, the United States will experience national paralysis.

Byrd, a Democrat from coal-producing West Virginia, called for "a softening of bureaucratic dogmatism" and a relaxation of existing environmental rules.

"The inescapable fact is that if we are going to avoid a paralyzing stoppage in almost every phase of our national life, we are just going to have to make accommodations," Byrd said.

"Like it or not, ours is an industrial society, and unless we are prepared to sacrifice our entire lifestyle, we will remain an industrial society."

He said clean air standards adopted by the Environmental Protection Agency for 1975 would prohibit the consumption of 155 million tons of coal a year. This would require instead the use of 1.6 million barrels of oil a day which, if imported at current prices, would cost $1.5 billion a year or more, Byrd said.

"I don't think we're far

U.S. officials say fuel supply outlook bleak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Department officials said Friday the supply outlook for natural gas, propane and other fuels this winter is bleak.

Duke R. Ligon, director of the Interior Department's Office of Oil and Gas, said "there will indeed be shortages this winter in natural gas and, most likely, propane. And the picture is far from encouraging on the outlook for other petroleum products, especially distillate and fuel oil."

"Any hope that there will be enough distillate oil or residual oil to fully complement our deficiencies in natural gas and propane must be put aside," Ligon said. "We just can't count on it."

"THIS IS the way we see it," he told the Emergency Advisory Committee for Natural Gas, made up of industry spokesmen.

The industry was unable to give Ligon any new hopes.

Robert Presley, Ligon's assistant for emergency preparedness, told the newsman after the committee held a day-long meeting: "there were definite indications of problems, particularly in the area of propane ... natural gas is going to be curtailed in certain areas."

L.A. D'Andrea, an industrial specialist in Ligon's office, said "the majority of the gas companies do anticipate curtailments of natural gas supplies."

HE SAID the shortage of natural gas was increasing the demand on propane and production could not respond at the same rate.

Over the next year, D'Andrea said, "the supply of propane may increase."

SEC details fraud charges at Westgate-California

New York Times Service

SAN DIEGO — C. Arnold Smith has denounced as a "devilish and deadly scheme" the government's attempt to remove him from control of his billion dollar business empire in a receivership action.

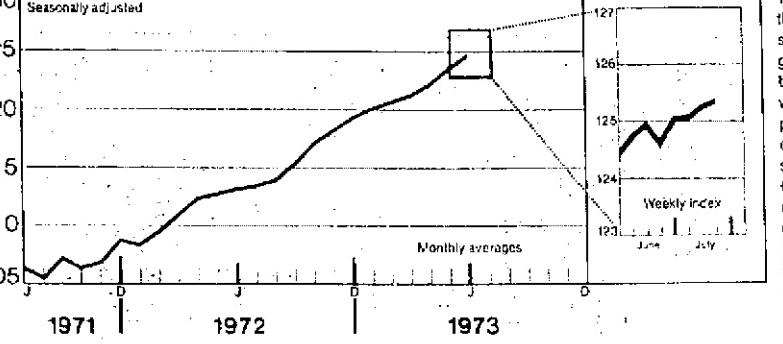

The 74-year-old financier and one-time grocery clerk, whom President Nixon once affectionately called "one of my first and most loyal supporters," is accused with two co-defendants of corporate frauds amounting to at least $20 million.

A Securities and Exchange Commission suit filed April 30 seeks a receivership for Smith's $100 million Westgate-California Corporation, the corporate umbrella

INDUSTRY WEEK

Staggering need for money

Astronomic growth in the nation's needs for money is causing some economists to fear that all of the requirements cannot be financed.

Once it was fairly easy to build a bridge, dig a canal, or build a plant, because money for such projects was generally available, even if at times it was expensive.

But the 1970s pose a new problem. Times are no longer simple, and the needs are staggering. Now it's build 2 million houses a year, control pollution, solve the energy crisis, and keep the production capacity productive. All of this costs money, the Industry Week magazine says.

It's estimated, for example, the U.S. energy industry alone will require new investment of $500 billion in the next 15 years to meet the growing demand for energy. In contrast, the nation's total corporate demand for funds this year is but $60 billion. Only six years ago the total corporate demand for funds was only about $30 billion.

SOME ECONOMISTS ARE AFRAID that all of the needs cannot be financed. Not only will the demand for capital be growing, but the supply of capital will also be shrinking. Consequently, they think many of the nation's needs will go unanswered.

However, other analysts believe the capital system will adapt itself to the needs, and that capital will be available to all productive elements of the economy. But the structure, they believe, will change. The ways to raise capital will be different, and the pressure will be heavy on certain industries and companies.

Savings industry one of state's 'true giants'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California is noted for bigness in many areas, and the savings and loan industry is one of its true giants.

From a meager beginning in 1865, savings and loan associations have matched the state's growth stride for stride as California rose to No. 1 in population.

Total assets of California S&Ls crossed the $45 billion mark at mid-year, up from $42.9 billion at the end of 1962. The new total is more than twice that of the No. 2 state — Illinois.

What makes this state's associations loom so overwhelmingly at the top are its big institutions. Among its 179 individual associations are seven of the top

John O. Gillette (right), head of Johnny Gillette Tire Company, Long Beach, and president of National Tire Dealers and Retreaders Association, discusses tire industry problems with W.H. 12 in the nation.

Here are the assets of California's Big 10 as of last March 31:

Home Federal	$4.71 billion
Great Western, Beverly Hills	$4.39 billion
American, Beverly Hills	$4.06 billion
California Federal, Los Angeles	$2.22 billion
Glendale Federal, Glendale	$1.69 billion
Citizens, San Francisco	$1.24 billion
Gibraltar, Beverly Hills	$1.29 billion
Coast Federal, Los Angeles	$1.11 billion
Home Federal, San Diego	$1.02 billion
Imperial, San Diego	$728.14 million

In 1963, about 50 per cent of S&L lending was in the area of construction. It had dropped to 15 per cent in terms of dollars invested in 1972. Last year, out of $8.8 billion in loans made by S&Ls only $1.35 billion went into construction with the rest going to finance the purchase of existing housing.

The Los Angeles Terminal Market, the nation's second largest, is one of the chief sources of produce supply for chain and independent retail markets.

"The only noticeable produce shortage occurred during the recent Salinas Valley strike primarily affecting lettuce and other leafy vegetables," he said.

Gendel, who is executive vice president of the Terminal Market's largest tenant, Westgate-Southland Produce Inc., also reported that for the first time in several months there is a bountiful supply of tomatoes with considerable price reduction at the wholesale level.

GENDEL also is first vice president of the Fresh Produce Council of Southern California and chairman of the "new market" committee.

for conglomerate holdings ranging from an airline, taxicab franchises, tunafishing fleets and canneries to banks, insurance companies, shopping centers, hotels and brokerage firms.

The suit, expanded by additional SEC charges, also asked that the three defendants be barred from holding office in any public company.

Co-defendants with the San Diego entrepreneur are Michael J. Coen of Kansas City, a close associate whose diverse business interests are closely and often obscurely interlocked with Smith's enterprises; Philip A. Toff, president of Westgate-California under Smith's chairmanship, and six companies controlled by the three men.

THE THREE defendants are accused of "systematically appropriating for their personal profit and enrichment" the assets of Westgate-California and the United States National Bank of San Diego, the 10th largest in California with more than $1 billion in resources, which also is controlled by Smith.

Smith, in a 25-page affidavit filed with Federal Judge Leland Nielson, said placing Westgate-California in receivership with new officers and directors would "destroy it and my family and lead to the ruin of the company's stockholders."

Because of the SEC's action, Smith said, the corporation's major lines of bank credit have been shut off and he has been compelled to pledge his personal fortune — reputed to be almost $25 million — including his home in La Jolla, in order to obtain funds for the company's operation.

If the SEC had deliberately set out to destroy

Westgate and the value of its shares, it could not have devised a more devilish and deadly scheme," he said.

THE SEC, whose petition for receivership followed more than two years of investigation of the complicated business dealings of Smith and his associates, asserted that both Westgate-California and U.S. National Bank had been victimized by many-faceted frauds.

Smith, Coen and Toff are accused of "manufacturing" bogus profits for Westgate-California through dealings with other firms operated by the three men and of using false financial reports to hide those frauds.

The six companies named as defendants in the suit, in addition to Westgate-California, are three which are at least nominally controlled by Coen: The First California Corporation, a San Francisco-based brokerage concern created with loans from Westgate-California; British Columbia Investment Company of Kansas City, whose stock is said to be pledged to a Smith investment firm as collateral for loans from U.S. National Bank, usually on the sole authorization of Smith.

Just prior to Westgate-California's fiscal year-end reports, the assets were said to have been returned to Westgate-California to hide the conspiracy from company auditors. In 1969 alone, the SEC said, Smith "manufactured" earnings of more than $3 million for Westgate-California. The SEC alleged that, in numerous instances, "the scheme for conversion consisted of bargain sales of Westgate assets to the defendants and the sales of these assets back to Westgate by the defendants at grossly inflated prices."

Dollar in 'dirty float'

By DON G. CAMPBELL

As the gentleman said, emerging from his demolition car only to be bitten by a rabid dog: "This is not, so far, one of my better days."

Unfortunately, the same comment might be made by both the battered stock market and the tattered economy, generally.

Q: Now, that the dollar is in a "dirty float," as indicated by the news stories, I am really scared that we are headed for a run-away inflation and, according to statistics, cash, bonds and life insurance will not be worth the powder to blow them up.

Some suggest that I buy Swiss francs or silver bullion or gold bullion on the foreign exchange. Since I have about $10,000 each in stock, bonds and cash, would you advise me to transfer my assets as indicated above?

A: No one this side of the county happy farm can deny that Uncle Sam's highly touted war on inflation has moved right along with all of the efficiency of a gasoline engine that has been built by a 7th grade drop-out.

The erosion of the dollar not only continues, but does so at a rate that is no slower than it was about four years ago when Washington discovered that it was getting out of hand. There has to be a solution to it, of course. But, so far, no one has discovered it.

Do you have the qualifications and background to go into business for yourself? I'd suggest that you retain about $5,000 in your savings account and apply the balance toward the purchase of a home that will be adequate for the family that — four years hence, or whenever — you will undoubtedly have.

Let the equity in the home build up, continue your savings program and don't start any long-range, extensive reshaping of your life until this family situation is resolved.

Why? Because I'm afraid that if you lay out a 10-, 15- or 20-year commitment for yourself now you will be inclined to base it on your present $17,000-a-year income, a figure that would change drastically if your family planning time schedule gets out of whack — for want of a better phrase.

(Campbell) can answer only representative questions of general interest in this column.)

AGNEW PROBE

narrowing its investigation to allegations that developers and consulting engineers made under-table payments to Agnew while he was Baltimore County's executive.

The subpoena, which was served by federal investigator Allan E. Campbell, read:

"You are hereby commanded to appear in the United States District Court for the district of Maryland at 111 North Calvert Street in the City of Baltimore on the 16th day of August, 1973, at 10:00 a.m. to testify before the grand jury and bring with you any and all records of any kind whatsoever in your actual or constructive possession that relates to or involves in any way Spiro T. Agnew and Jerome B. Wolff."

Wolff, a long-time associate of Agnew's, was head of the state Road Department in Maryland while Agnew was governor. He also served for a time on Agnew's staff when he was vice president. He currently is head of a subsidiary of the J. E. Greiner Company, Inc., one of the engineering firms involved in the investigation.

RADOFF said the records the government subpoenaed filled 130 boxes. He said he had explained to an assistant U.S. attorney that a very large number of records were involved and that it was agreed that government investigators would decide which records the grand jury would need.

"These records contain official letters, contracts, logs of who visits the office, interoffice memoranda, all the business that the government does."

Radoff, who is 68 years old and has been state archivist for 33 years, said it has been the custom in Maryland for outgoing governors to leave their records intact. He said he did not know if Agnew had left all of his records. "I can't control that. The records are his," he said.

Meanwhile, an examination of the campaign records covered in the second subpoena, showed that four widely known Maryland businessmen involved in the investigation of the vice president, reported contributing $15,- 000 for Agnew's 1966 campaign.

THE federal investigation thus broadened into the area of campaign contributions. Many of the principals involved in the investigation, including Agnew have vigorously denied that their actions involved any illegal actions or other improprieties.

Campaign reports filed with the state government in Annapolis by Agnew show that he received $15,000 total from I. H. Hammerman, Lester Matz, John C. Childs Sr. and J. Walter Jones, all widely known Maryland businessmen.

An examination of the records of Baltimore County — which Agnew headed during the four years before he was elected governor — showed that the engineering firm led by Matz and Childs received more than $500,000 in consulting fees during this period.

Baltimore County is a 610 square-mile area surrounding Baltimore City. The Baltimore County government, which Agnew headed as county executive from 1962 to 1966, has about 5,000 employees and provides basic services such as police protection, sanitation and road construction to a population of 620,000 residents.

The county records also showed that Wolff, who was mentioned in the federal subpoena for Agnew's records, received a total of $174,632.74 in consulting fees from the county during the five-year period between when he left his position as assistant director of the Baltimore County Public Works Department and when he was appointed chairman of the state Roads Commission on March 1, 1967.

THE records also indicated that on Aug. 6, 1970, Wolff received $24,000 as a special consultant to the county on regional water needs. This fee was awarded to Wolff after he left Agnew's staff in Washington and had become president of Greiner Environmental Systems, Inc.

During the two-year period from July 1, 1970, to June 30, 1972, Greiner Environmental Systems received additional consulting fees of $187,824.

NIXON FUMING

sources said Nixon planned to let Agnew "stand alone" in defending himself against allegations arising from the federal investigation of possible charges of tax fraud, extortion, bribery and conspiracy.

WARREN tended to confirm this Friday by saying the White House would "absolutely not" make any move to block a possible Agnew appearance before the federal grand jury in Baltimore, that there had been no contact between the White House and Agnew's lawyers and that Agnew was free to prepare his legal defense without interference.

Suspect cites grab for death of tot

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — One of three Norwalk men charged with the slaying of a 4-year-old Southern California girl testified Friday that a shotgun discharged when a young woman grabbed his arm.

Donald Antelo, 21, made the statement in San Mateo County Superior Court where he and two others were on trial for the July 2, 1972, murder of Joyce A. Huff in the Hawaiian Gardens section of Los Angeles County.

The other defendants were Oscar Hernandez, 22, and Michael Ramirez, 18. The child was killed by a shotgun blast while playing outside. The prosecution charged that the defendants were in an automobile from which the fatal blast was discharged.

Antelo, who said Gail Dudley, 18, was in the car, said "I only had the gun with me because I was trying to sell it."

"It was dropped off at my house by somebody who ripped it off in a burglary. Gail grabbed my arm before the gun went off and yelled, 'No, Don, no,' and the gun went off. I never knew what happened."

Miss Dudley had told the jury she could not remember what happened the day of the slaying.

MORE BODIES

"There's probably a lot more bodies down there," said police Det. J. P. Paulk, "but we think they've led us to all they know of."

Police found 17 bodies buried in a musty boat shed in southwest Houston Wednesday and Thursday. The search then spread to the woods 125 miles north of Houston and to the beach.

Henley and Brooks said the slayings came during homosexual orgies. Henley killed Corll during one such "party" Wednesday.

Henley, who wore a gray jump suit in the forest but shed it later under the sun on the bench, murmured over one grave a message meant for the mothers and fathers and friends of the slain victims:

"I OWE these people this much — to let them know about their boys."

Det. Young said, "We'll probably end up with almost 30 in all. One of the defendants has known Corll since he was 6 years old and another has known him for three years."

"But he's dead, so we'll probably never know how many were killed — maybe a hundred," said Young.

Henley was charged Friday with four counts of murder in the forest deaths, and Justice of the Peace C. A. Renfro ordered him jailed under $100,000 on each count — a total of $400,000.

In a three-page statement, Brooks said young boys were killed at five Houston houses, and he helped bury as many as 20.

"I remember helping bury one of the bodies up near Sam Rayburn Lake. There was already one body buried up there," Brooks said. "When we went up there, there was a hand sticking out, so we put a rock on top of the second body so that it wouldn't come up."

BROOKS described two of the killings — the deaths of a boy he identified as Billy Balsch and another called Johnny.

"Wayne (Henley) strangled Billy, and he said, 'Hey Johnny,' and then when Johnny looked up, Wayne shot him in the forehead with a .25-automatic. The bullet came down out his ear and he raised up and after about three minutes he said, 'Wayne, please don't.' Then Wayne strangled him and Dean helped."

Henley, 5-foot-11, 130 pounds, hid his face in his hands and his tousled hair fell all the way to his chin.

"I feel pretty grotesque. I didn't feel like I was going to be able to hold my sanity much longer. I almost cracked several times," he said of the three-year ordeal of murder and sadism. The youngest victim was believed to be 18 years old.

There appeared to be no exact pattern, except that Henley and Brooks would lure the boys to the different locations, where Corll and Henley would perform sadistic acts on them — either killing

To be filed in Sacramento Nixon fund data pledged

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's chief election official announced Friday that President Nixon's 1972 campaign organization has agreed to disclose the source and recipient of millions of dollars in secret funds raised before a new federal law took effect April 7, 1972.

"All financial activities of the Nixon campaign will now be brought into the open and the public will finally receive a full accounting of how money was raised and spent," said Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., a Democrat.

Brown said detailed reports covering both contributions and expenditures between Jan. 1, 1971 and April 6, 1972, would be filed with his office by Sept. 28. He said the Nixon campaign organization also has agreed to help "reconstruct" records covering more than a million dollars raised prior to 1972.

Additional details of pre-1971 campaign financing are expected to be submitted after Sept. 28, an aide said.

If not next month at least thereafter, the aide continued, the secretary of state's office should obtain details on several hundred thousand dollars, which Nixon's personal attorney, Herbert Kalmbach, kept in two Newport Beach checking accounts and a Los Angeles safety deposit box.

Some of the money paid out by Kalmbach was believed to have been funneled into a campaign to defeat Alabama Gov. George Wallace in his successful 1970 gubernatorial bid.

Before Henley confessed he knew of the killings and revealed the fresh graves, he talked with his mother on the telephone.

"Momma," he said, "I've told them everything."

"What do you mean, everything?" said Mrs. Mary Henley.

"Just everything."

"Oh, Wayne."

"Momma, be happy for me because now, at last, I can live," said the youth.

Brooks, recently married with a pregnant wife, also told police the killings took place over a three-year period and the victims were all boys.

"Brooks said Henley was extremely sadistic and liked to tie the boys down spread-eagled on a board on the floor and perform unnatural sex acts before murdering them," Porter said. "Most of the victims were apparently only acquaintances or complete strangers."

THE police lieutenant said most of the victims were killed during orgies involving Corll and the two teen-aged youths. The bodies were wrapped in plastic bags and transported to their graves in Corll's white van truck.

Henley claimed it was Corll who performed homosexual acts on the victims. The youth said the 5-foot-7 Corll buried four bodies near Lake Sam Rayburn because "Corll's parents have a place out there."

"He said the boat shed was getting full of bodies," Henley said.

Henley said Corll offered him as much as $200 a boy if the youth would procure youngsters.

"I am informed that the new reports will cover millions of dollars in contributions which the Nixon organizations raised prior to April 7, 1972," Brown said.

"Testimony before the Senate Watergate committee has revealed that Nixon fundraisers made a special effort to obtain contributions prior to April 7 under the mistaken belief that money raised during that period need not be made public."

Brown said, "Although federal law may not require disclosure of pre-April 7 contributions, California law clearly does require full disclosure of campaign donations — no matter when they were received."

Brown, a contender for the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said: "Funds raised elsewhere were sometimes used to pay California campaign expenses."

"It is therefore impossible to isolate 'California' money, and the Nixon committees have agreed to file reports covering the entire national campaign."

"Today's agreement marks a milestone in the battle against secret campaign funds," Brown said.

IN HIS dealings with the Nixon campaign organization, an aide said, Brown worked primarily with attorney Nicholas McConnell, whose Washington law firm represents the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President, the Media Committee to President. This committee, headed by former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, was the chief money handler for the campaign organization.

The secretary of state said the Nixon committee will file similar, but less detailed, reports in Washington on Sept. 28 under an agreement with Common Cause, which had sued the re-election committee to obtain pre-April 7 records.

Re-elect the President, the Host for President Committee and the Victory '71 Dinner Committee.

The secretary of state said the Nixon committee will furnish campaign statements, Brown said, are the Radio Committee to Re-elect the President, the Television Committee to Re-elect the President, the Media Committee to

"Under the circumstances, this committee hereby returns the contribution which you say constituted corporate funds."

A spokesman for the finance committee said the panel had agreed to let Gulf disclose the contribution why the company waited 15 days before doing so.

Sources in Cox's office said Thursday that "several more" company executives have told him that they donated corporate funds, but that the officials would not be named immediately unless they identified themselves publicly.

Dorsey said Gulf had advised Cox of the contributions which became known Friday and would "cooperate fully" with the special prosecutor's office.

Mayor offers Riggs 'bitter pill'

Mayor Edwin W. Wade of Long Beach, Billie Jean King's hometown, Friday provided a "vitamin pill" for Bobby Riggs.

Mrs. King meets Riggs in their tennis match Sept. 20 in Houston's Astrodome.

"We look forward to your forthcoming match with Bobby Riggs, and it is our desire to assist in your training in any way possible," the mayor wrote in a letter given to Mrs. King's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis J. Moffitt, along with the "pill."

Riggs wrote: "... aware of Mr. Riggs' fondness for vitamins, we have developed the world's largest vitamin.

"We call it Vitamin QT—for Quiet Tennis.

"It looks like a tennis ball, because it is made from a tennis ball.

"Present it to Mr. Riggs, together with these instructions: Place vitamin in mouth, and hold until it melts."

"Vitamin QT, used as directed, will transform Bobby Riggs from a noisy, irritating senior citizen into a calm, quiet gentleman of the court."

Nervous 'Twitch' — 2 1/2

By GORDON VERRILL
Staff Writer

When Walter Alston talks about the Dodgers' batting slump he's talking primarily about Joe Ferguson.

The man who led the Dodgers' early surge has failed to regain his touch of May and June since suffering a broken thumb on June 20 when he was batting .284 and led the Dodgers with 12 homers and 49 RBIs.

"The guy who I'm the most concerned about is Fergie," Alston has said repeatedly during the Dodgers' troubles at the plate.

Ferguson, who's seen his batting average plunge to .260 since his injury seven weeks ago, is showing signs of breaking out of his lengthy slump.

Friday night, as the Dodgers suffered a 5-3 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies before 21,167 fans at Dodger Stadium, cutting their lead over Cincinnati to just 2 1/2 games — a lead that was once 8 1/2 — Fergie slugged a three-run homer, but only the third since he broke the thumb.

The three RBI provided Ferguson with a club record for Dodger catchers, breaking John Rose-boro's 12-year-old mark of 59 runs batted in for a season. Ferguson now has 61 after his 16th homer.

Fergie's big blow was overshadowed by two home runs by the Phils' rookie third baseman, Mike Schmidt, his 13th and 14th of the season.

Schmidt's first homer, a three-run shot in the seventh inning off of loser Tommy John, put Philadelphia back on top, 4-3, and he added his second with no one aboard in the ninth off of Doug Rau.

The 2 1/2-game margin is the shortest lead the Dodgers have enjoyed since June 19, two days after they took possession of first place in the National League's Western Division.

Wayne Twitchell, who has replaced 1972 Cy Young Award winner Steve Carlton as the Phillies' ace, went the distance and, except for Ferguson's fourth-inning homer, was in command all the way.

He scattered seven hits, six of them singles, while striking out seven and walking only two.

"I was a little apprehensive when Ferguson hit the home run," Twitchell, now 11-4, admitted afterward, "but the ball he hit was a high pitch. I kept most everything else down."

The Phils scored in the first inning against Tommy John, who absorbed his seventh loss against 11 victories, when Cesar Tovar singled, the first of his three base hits, reached third on two infield outs and then scored on an infield single by Greg Luzinski.

The Dodgers rebounded swiftly in the fourth when Steve Garvey singled with one out, Willie Crawford walked and then Ferguson homered. It was his first home run since July 30 and it shot the O'Malleys into a 3-1 lead.

John nursed the two-run lead until the seventh when Bill Robinson and Bob Boone grounded singles into leftfield. Pitching coach Red Adams went to the mound, talked briefly with John and returned to the dugout barely in time to see

Longshots share lead, Nicklaus close behind

Combined News Services

CLEVELAND — Longshots Don Iverson and Mason Rudolph shared the 36-hole lead in the PGA championship Friday, but Jack Nicklaus at long last appeared primed and in position to win that elusive 14th major title.

Nicklaus, who has failed five times since the 1972 U.S. Open to win another major championship and break his tie with the late Bobby Jones, moved with a stroke of the surprising leaders as he fashioned a three-under-par 68 despite putting problems.

But Arnold Palmer, whose putting woes make Nicklaus' look like nothing, shot a 74 and went home, missing the PGA's 36-hole cut for the first time in his brilliant career.

Iverson, the 27-year-old Wisconsin pro who shared the first round lead, and the veteran Rudolph had rounds of 72 and 70, respectively, Friday and were at 139 for 36 holes.

The softly-drawling Rudolph, a 1971 Ryder Cup member, replaced Al Geiberger as Iverson's co-leader. Geiberger went from an opening 67 to 76 for 143, well back in the tightly bunched pack.

Nicklaus headed a runner-up trio at 140 as he hit 16 greens in regulation — barely rolling over the other two — made three birdies and 15 pars and announced he thought his time had come.

"Golf is a game of patience," said Nicklaus.

whose bids in the Masters, U.S. Open and British Open this year all were wrecked by a single hideous round. "If you don't have patience, you keep missing those putting and all of a sudden you shoot 75 real fast."

The trio at 140 also included Gibby Gilbert, who built a second successive 70 around four consecutive birdies on the front nine, and resurgent Dan Sikes, whose 68 included a chip-in birdie three at the 465-yard 13th.

Three more players were just another stroke away at 141, including Tom Weiskopf, who birdied the tough 18th for the second day and shot 71.

He was tied with former U.S. and British Open champion Tony Jacklin, who also had a 71 with a putter he made himself, and 1970 PGA winner Dave Stockton, who shot 69.

Remarkable Sam Snead, hardly showing his age (61), provided one of the day's most dramatic moments when he surged into a tie for the lead midway through the back nine. Snead bogeyed three of the last five holes, including 17 and 18, but still had a second 71 for a 142 total.

Mike Hill, Lanny Wadkins, Jim Colbert and club pro Bobby Brue were tied with Snead and about a dozen more players were at 143 — putting virtually a third of the surviving field within four strokes of the lead and assuring a dramatic windup to this $25,000 event, last of the year's major championships.

Johnny Miller, the U.S. Open champion, was the biggest name of the 143's. Miller, who blasted the condition of the greens Thursday in the opening round, shot a 71 and announced he was pleased with the course.

"The greens were good," said Miller. "They were really fair."

Leading money-winner Bruce Crampton was another stroke back at 144, defending champion Gary Player was at 145 and Lee Trevino came in at 146 with a 70 Friday.

Iverson, playing in a major championship for the first time, started shakily when he caught a bunker at the third and missed the green at the fourth and took a bogey each time. He might have panicked and fallen off right there, but he had a little talk with himself.

"I figured on a golf course like this, that's no reason to push the panic."

Smith disappears during Angel win

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

BOSTON — There were two questions to ponder after the Angels hung a 5-3 defeat upon the Boston Red Sox Friday night amid the oppressive heat and humidity of Fenway Park.

(1) - Where do the Angels go from here? (2) - Where does Reggie Smith go from here?

Frank Robinson, the new hitting wonder, attempted to supply an answer to the first query.

"How about third place?" he asked, speaking realistically. "When we get there we can hope. There is still time."

But time has apparently run out on Reggie Smith.

The tormented, taunted and troubled Boston outfielder took himself out of the game after the second inning, hurriedly vanished into the clubhouse and then vanished from the park.

He left without permission, saying nothing to either his manager, Eddie Kasko, or his teammates.

"There will be some action taken against Reggie tomorrow," promised Boston general manager Dick O'Connell, "and it will be a financial action."

The inference, of course, is that a fine will be slapped on Smith — probably a hefty one.

There was intense speculation among the Boston media that Smith's

ANGELS OF DAY

FRANK ROBINSON homered and singled twice and DAVE SELLS won for first time since June 26 as Angels upended Boston, 5-3.

turbulent career with the Red Sox is now over.

Are you listening, Harry Dalton?

Smith was bussed derisively in the first inning when he grounded into a double play and made no attempt to run out the ball. Smith was less than halfway down the line when the twin killing was completed.

He was taunted again by the mocking crowd of 24,856 in the second inning when Richie Scheinblum's fly ball dropped in front of him for a single. Smith, running on two bad knees which have impeded his play most of the year, actually gave it an honest effort, sprawling in the grass trying to make the catch.

At the end of the inning Smith was jeered for the third time as he came into the dugout. In a counterfeit gesture of appreciation, Smith doffed his hat to his tormentors and then slammed it to the floor of the dugout and disappeared into the recesses of the clubhouse.

He hasn't been seen since.

While Smith was making like a ghost, Dave Sells of the Angels made a reappearance.

Ineffective and frustrated for the past month, Sells posted his first victory since June 26 with three and two-thirds innings of two-hit relief and said immediately afterward that, "I think I have it all together again."

"I've wanted to get into a game so badly the last five or six days that I've been screaming to myself," he said. "I think I have it all together again."

"I've wanted to get into a game so badly the last five or six days that I've been screaming to myself," he said.

Sells traced his recent ineffectiveness to an injured finger on his pitching hand.

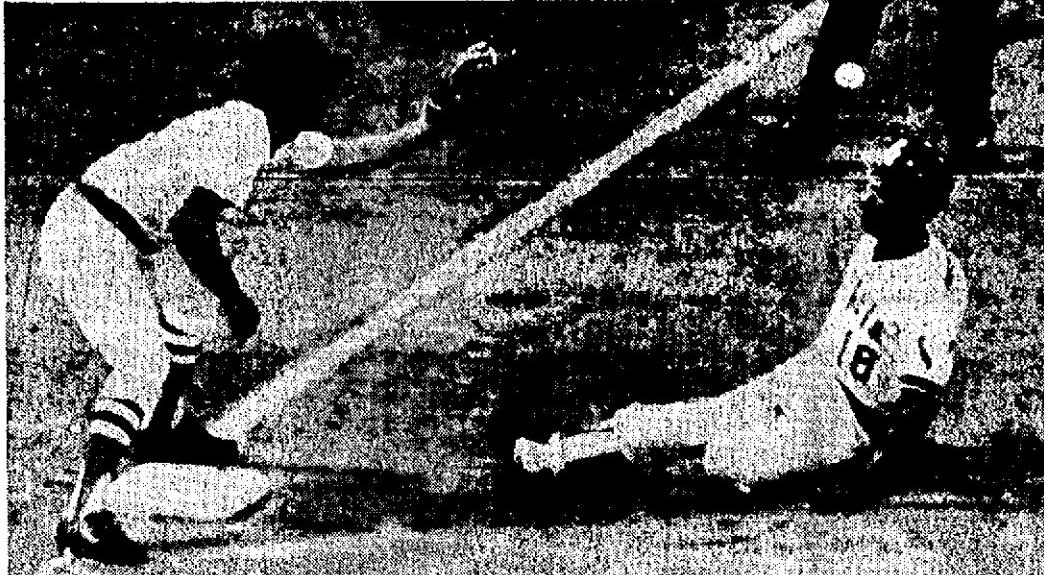

Robinson was on base five times in succession, making it 12 times in his last 14 at-bats that he has reached base safely. He homered, singled twice and was walked twice. He also drove in three runs, giving him 61 for the season.

"I'm swinging good, seeing the ball better and having lots of luck," Robinson said, trying to explain why he has nine hits in 11 tries. "I don't think I had the plate covered mentally before."

Munson cracked his three-run homer in the first inning against loser Darold Knowles, 4-5, and eighth on Lee Stanton's triple and Scheinblum's game-winning single.

ANGEL ANGLES: The Angels made a surprise move Friday, sending BILLY GRABERKEWITZ to Salt Lake City to make room for the reactivation of catcher JEFF TORBORG. Grabby caught a late flight home Friday, indicating he would quit the game rather than report to the minors. General manager HARRY DALTON is trying to find employment for Grabby, who was hitting an embarrassing .163, with another major league club. The series continues today with NOLAN RYAN (3-13) matching fastballs with rookie ROGER MORET (6-9). Ryan, who complained of feeling sluggish, left the park early to get a good night's sleep. Unlike Smith, however, The Express had permission.

BEATING THE THROW

Angels' Billy Parker just beats Tommy Harper's throw to third base on Jeff Torborg's double in second inning as Boston third baseman Rico Petrocelli waits for throw. Parker was stranded on third but Angels defeated Boston, 5-3.

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Hal McRae and Lou Piniella hit home runs into the left field bullpen in the fifth inning Friday night to break a scoreless tie and power sizzling Kansas City to a 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The victory, Kansas City's 10th in its last 12 games, boosted the

Royals' lead to two games in the American League West, while Baltimore fell out of first place in the AL East.

Seaver stymies San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)

— Wayne Garrett hit a three-run homer and Tom Seaver pitched an eight-hitter for his 14th victory Friday night in leading the New York Mets to a 7-1 decision over San Francisco.

Seaver added a two-run double to the 12-hit New York attack that sent Juan Marichal down to his eighth loss in 17 decisions.

Seaver struck out seven to raise his season total to 175, tops in the National League, and reduced his earned run average to 1.85, also best in the NL.

Singles by Cleon Jones and Ted Martinez preceded Seaver double in the second when the Mets grabbed a 2-0 lead. They added four unearned runs in the fifth with Garrett's eighth homer the key blow.

Rosenbloom, Rams plea for patience, understanding

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

Carroll Rosenbloom shook his head and asked a reporter a question.

"Have you ever heard fans cheer when the visiting team scored?" the Rams' owner asked. "I've been in pro football for 20 years and I never had."

Rosenbloom, musing

over last week's 24-7 loss to Dallas, had forgotten the Rams' visit to Philadelphia last season when they were easily the more popular of the two teams in town. But he would not like to compare Southland fans to Philadelphia fans.

"I'd just like them to realize what we're trying to do," he says.

Jets suspend Boozer, Hill

Associated Press

New York Jets coach Webb Ewbank announced Friday that holdouts Emerson Boozer and Winston Hill had been suspended after the two players did not accompany the team for tonight's exhibition game against the San Francisco 49ers in Tampa, Fla.

Ewbank said neither player would be allowed to practice with the team next week. Hill is an offensive tackle and Boozer a running back.

CORYELL Both players refused to play in last week's game against Houston despite being bound by the option clause in their old agreements.

DON CORYELL makes his pro football coaching debut tonight in the home of his success as a college coach as he leads the St. Louis Cardinals in their pre-season opener against the San Diego Chargers.

Coryell, 48, came to St. Louis this year after 12 seasons at San Diego State, where his teams had a 10-4-19-2 record and usually ranked among the nation's leaders in passing.

Coryell says he's surprised at the pros' college-style hustle. "I was anticipating some prima donnas."

The Cards' undistinguished running game is weakened further by injuries to Johnny Roland and Leon Burns, so Jim Hart and Tim Van Galder figure to do plenty of throwing to Bobby Moore, Jackie Smith and ex-Charger Walker Giletti.

Leading newcomers are all-American defensive tackle Dave Butz (Purdue) and running back Terry Metcalf, an old tormentor of Coryell's San Diego teams at Long Beach State.

IT'S ONLY the second week of the exhibition season, but Cincinnati Bengals coach Paul Brown has been running into a lot of friendly enemies.

Last week, he lost to Don Shula, once a student.

McQuay was suspended

That is, for tonight's 7:30 practice match against the Cleveland Browns at the Coliseum, Rosenbloom would prefer to see more patience and understanding among the anticipated 50,000 spectators who will be witnessing not a supreme effort for victory but another test run to acquire knowledge that will be applied when the action commences for real.

John Hadl, who failed to produce a point in three quarters last week, will again start and play at least the first half. He will be followed by Youngstown State's Ron Jaworski, one of three second-round draft picks who will be given long looks.

The others are free safety Cullen Bryant of Colorado and middle linebacker Jim Youngblood of Tennessee Tech, both members of the College All-Stars who have been late moving into the system.

Coach Chuck Knox also is anxious to determine whether last week's sluggish running attack (2.6 average on 31 rushes) is a true reading or could be attributed to Dallas' Doomsday Defense.

He is fairly confident that Hadl's 9-for-21 passing, with two costly interceptions, was not the most he can expect of the 12-year veteran.

Since Cleveland dropped its exhibition opener to San Francisco Monday night, 27-16, both clubs enter the match winless. In fact, the Browns went 0-6 last pre-season and were the only opponent the Rams (1-5) were able to handle, 13-3.

However, the Browns, staking their hopes on then-third-year quarterback Mike Phipps, were delighted to watch the former Purdue all-America develop from a shaky start and lead the Browns

DID BROWNS OVERCHARGE ON TICKETS?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department filed a suit Friday accusing the Cleveland Browns of overcharging home game ticket purchasers by $400,000 in violation of the 1971 price freeze.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court against the National Football League team, seeks a court ruling ordering the Browns to refund the amount to the purchasers.

The suit accused the Browns of raising ticket prices for all seats at 1971 home games by at least $1 each.

Acting assistant Atty. Gen. Irving Jaffe said the department delayed filing the civil suit until similar cases were decided in other courts.

The suit noted that the U.S. Temporary Emergency Court of Appeals, established to handle economic stabilization cases, had upheld the government position in a similar case against USC last February.

Miami's Shula labels Kiick's demotion charge 'ridiculous'

Combined News Services

Miami Dolphin coach Don Shula called Jim Kiick's claim that he was demoted in favor of Mercury Morris because he failed to complete a 12-minute run in training last year as "ridiculous."

Kiick, and his co-authors Larry Csonka and Dave Anderson of the New York Times, made the charge in their book "Always on the Run," scheduled for publication Aug. 31.

In the book, Kiick says, "The situation went back to when I didn't finish the 12-minute run." He says he stopped after eight minutes because he was still recovering from a bout with the flu and "I couldn't breathe."

McQuay went on to gain 1,000 yards, while Kiick gained 521 yards.

LEON MCQUAY, the Toronto Argonauts' controversial and talented running back, is being dropped by the Canadian Football League club "for the sake of the entire team," says head coach John Rauch.

McQuay was suspended

Stars tee off at Los Alamitos

Lakers' star Jerry West headlines a group of celebrities who will compete today in the Dick Whittinghill Celebrity-Amateur Golf Tournament at Los Alamitos Country Club.

The stars who will play with amateur foursomes include Morey Amsterdam, Efrem Zimbalist, Pepper Rodgers, Bob Boyd, Jackie Coogan, Foster Brooks, Jim Davis, Dennis James, John Schuck and Fred Hessler.

Gallery tickets are $2. Proceeds go to the Reshaven Mental Health Center in Los Angeles.

Seal Beach hosts top volleyballers

Many of Southern California's best volleyball players will swing into action today and Sunday as seven teams contest the Seal Beach Invitational beach tournament. The round-robin event at 10th St. courts begins at 9 a.m. both days.

Graphics Unlimited-Uker's Tigers are favored with Jack in the Box. Other teams include Marri's Pizza, Cherry Beach No. 1 and No. 2 and Alice's Bombers.

DEF ANDROS, head man at Oregon State, said the Beavers planned to "throw the football" this season. OSU had a 2-9 record last year, sticking mainly to a running game.

Jim Sweeney of Washington State said he believed the Cougars "will have to be reckoned with."

Jim Owens of Washington said rebuilding was in process for the Huskies.

Oregon's Dick Enright said he thought Norval Turner would be an adequate replacement for Dan Fouts at quarterback.

Jack Christiansen of Stanford said, "I thought we had pretty good size until I heard about USC. Pro scouts tell me it's the biggest team they've ever seen."

button," said Iverson. He came right back with birdie putts of 40 and 15 feet on the next two greens and parred his way home except for a bogey when he bunkered his approach at 13.

Rudolph, so sick with a stomach virus most of the week he couldn't get in more than six holes of practice Tuesday and Wednesday, made three birdies, two bogeys and saved three other pars with long putts.

"Maybe that was the way to prepare for these major championships," Rudolph said. "Maybe I've been going about it all wrong."

Nicklaus said he got "a lucky break" on the 12th hole.

"It really turned the whole round around," he said. "It changed a bad round into a good one."

He'd hit his tee shot on the 372-yard hole to within 100 yards of the green, but in the rough. He didn't know it, but his ball was nestled against a hidden tree stump that had been cut off at ground level and was covered with grass.

His wedge shot came out flying, carrying a bunker in front of the green and rolling to a stop some four feet short of the cup. He made the putt for a birdie.

"It was really a big break," Nicklaus said. "I didn't see the stump. I could have suffered some bad hand damage. But I didn't."

Scoring generally was a little better than it was Thursday as calm air prevailed on a hot and sunny day at Canterbury, and there were no criticisms of the tree-lined, 6,852-yard course.

The 36-hole cut came at 149 and the victims besides Palmer, whose total was 150, included Gene Littler and Dave Hill, the noted golf course architecture critic.

Partying 'Parnelli' not the real thing

LAGUNA BEACH (AP) — George Parneter, alias Parnelli Jones, where are you?

That's what Eve Schoen would like to know, although the Laguna Beach police department really doesn't care, and neither does David McNeil.

Parnelli Jones? He's laughing about the whole thing.

It all started in mid-June when a fellow showed up at the Laguna Hotel flashing $100 bills, buying rounds of drinks for everyone in the bar and bragging he was famed race driver Jones.

McNeil, the hotel manager, said, "He stayed with us just two or three days and spent a lot of money."

Eve and "Parnelli" met in the bar one night, a whirlwind courtship began and a late July Tijuana, Mexico, wedding followed.

Then the tale began to fall apart at the seams. It ended this week with Mrs. Schoen revealing her husband had absconded with $2,500 of her money, leaving behind a Mexican wedding license and a lot of unanswered questions.

Police revealed that the imposter had been arrested about a month ago for drunk in auto and given them the name George Parneter, 39.

McNeil said he suspected something was fishy from the first day.

"Well, at least I got to shake hands with the real Parnelli Jones. Too bad he's taken."

Jones is married and has two children.

"He drank quite a bit — was pretty potted almost all the time. He didn't appear to me to be the steady-nerved race driver type."

Mrs. Schoen went to see the real Parnelli Jones at his office in Torrance this week and said afterwards:

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norman Vincent Peale

Walk your worries away

Here is a fascinating experiment you might make sometime. Try taking a walk near a stretch of road along which you usually drive. You will hardly believe it's the same territory. You will be amazed at the new and interesting things you discover.

I thought of this recently when my wife Ruth and I walked eight kilometers (about five miles) from Trummelbach Falls to Stechelberg in Switzerland. We had often driven up this beautiful Lauterbrunnen valley admiring the huge cliffs, some of which form the base of the mighty Jungfrau and the Moch, two of the greatest mountains in the Alps.

This is a very fast flowing river. Throw a chip into its tossing waters and instantly it is whisked downstream in the rapid tumultuous current. But fast as the river flows, there is no heedlessness in it. Despite the surging and dashing movement one is aware of deep peacefulness. It sort of gives you the idea that a fast pace in life need not affect you nervously if you keep in tune with the basic life force, as does a river and all of nature.

Walking has become almost a lost art, particularly with Americans. On the Alpine mountain paths you meet lots of Swiss, many English and German, some French, but rarely an American. Apparently legs in the United States are used mainly for standing up and sitting down. This is

A sober faith

Here-and-now Christians must fight irrational

By THE REV. A. LEROY YOUNG
St. Luke's Episcopal Church

Several weeks ago in the city of New Orleans the police were called upon to cope with a street corner crowd that totaled nearly 1,000. The people had gathered to look at a stop sign.

According to the newspapers the sign was the focus of an unexplained occurrence. When car lights hit it at a certain angle some people testified that they saw an apparition. When the word of the strange happening got around the traffic jam in the suburban street was so extensive that the police finally removed the sign and told the people to go home.

The reactions to the occurrence are revealing. The children of Mrs. Childs E. Dunbar were convinced that they had witnessed a vision of Jesus. Their mother testified that it was indeed a highly detailed image that looked like the Lord.

Nineteen-year-old Jeff Aiple disagreed. "I don't know how Jesus came into this. It looked like Captain Zig Zag." Parenthetically it should be pointed out that Captain Zig Zag is the littleman whose face graces the blue and white packages of cigarette-rolling papers. Among members of the counter culture the picture of Captain Zig Zag is a symbol of marijuana and its use.

A photographer present to record the happening had another interpretation. He insisted that the vision was "Richard Nixon with his arms outstretched".

Another citizen, identified as the president of something called the Orleans Levee Board, saw only a faint line but his wife was sure it was Gen. Ulysses S. Grant.

The policeman, Officer Dwight Dean, who had been assigned to cope with the sign-watchers, had the final word. To him the stop sign looked only like stop sign.

This humorous report of a summer night's vision makes a summary statement about the times in which we live. It is fair to say that the reign of reason has been toppled and the forces of irrationality are rising. Not since the waning of the Middle Ages with their epidemic of "dancing sickness" have the forces of insanity been so widely deployed.

The Devil, long banished from intelligent society, has reappeared and is feared by some and worshipped by others. The seance, once a side-show act, has now been dignified into a religious exercise and there is a revival of the old belief of spirit possession.

Even the mainline churches have not been spared this interest in the bizarre. Some Episcopalians, talking like Jehovah's Witnesses, are busy setting dates for the return of Jesus Christ and predicting the outbreak of the Battle of Armageddon.

To one who keeps trying to follow a more sober form of Christianity all of this interest in table-rapping, devil worship and ESP is a blasphemous assault on God's economy. To seek or believe in another, a spirit world, is a denial of the good world that God has made.

To be awaiting the "Second Coming of Christ" may point to an obliviousness to the meaning of his first Advent. To be hoping always for a miracle may be a futile denial of the fixed limitations of this life. To court the irrational may be to reject the power of sweet reason which is the prime mark of the Creature who was made in the image of God.

It would appear to me that Christianity always comes down on the side of a no-nonsense embracing of the "here and now." The doctrine of the Good Creation and the Incarnation seem to proclaim that this world, this time-heavy existence, with all of its beauty and horror, "is where it is."

There is no need to wait for some "supernatural" confirmation or a voice from the "other side". All that is of value, all that is necessary for life, the purpose, the reasons for existence, are present potentially right here, right now. It is here in this living and dying world that human destiny must be worked out.

Perhaps the most rare of all graces is the one that enables a person to see things as they truly are. The courage to look with a clear eye upon the stop signs of this world and to recognize them for what they are — stop signs.

'Imperialism must collapse'

Christians have prophetic role in world revolution, says priest

By MARK CLUTTER

Christians must play their traditional prophetic role in the socialist revolutions that are sweeping the Latin American nations, says the Rev. Frank Vanderhoff, Roman Catholic priest and Marxist.

Father Vanderhoff, a 34-year-old Dutchman, is vacationing briefly from his assignment in southern Mexico at the home of his uncle, Mike Boersma, president of the Paramount Rotary Club.

The priest belongs to a group that is trying to improve of Latin America last year. For every $1 invested, $4 are taken out."

Father Vanderhoff was ordained in Holland and moved to Canada where he now teaches in Ottawa University and St. Paul University in Ottawa. His subjects are political science and social theology with special emphasis on the problems of Latin America. In addition to his missions to Mexico he has traveled in Chile, Peru and Argentina.

"Many Christians, especially in the United States, see an irreconcilable conflict between Christianity and Marxism," he said. "It is true that Marx saw organized religion as a tool of capitalism, but it doesn't have to be. The Church can and must speak out against the facts of injustice. It must do more than that. It must get at the roots of injustice. It must carry out its historic role of prophecy."

Mexico, he said, is almost entirely "Catholic" but the Church has no official existence. "Until the Revolution the Church was a tool and part of the government," he said. "It was the largest owner of wealth in Mexico. The government took all its land, but it still has great moral power.

Some of the popular "talk shows", both local and network, are having "Marlo" as guest. This young man will bear watching. It will be interesting to see what God will bring about in his life. His mockery of evangelism, evangelists, the church and the gospel is shocking. He sounds like a stock phonograph needle on "Why doesn't Billy Graham speak out on the war and social issues?"

To be called to preach the gospel is a serious and awesome thing. And God help the man who is called and doesn't preach this message. Certainly we will concede that some who are attempting to preach and evangelize may not be called of God, and there are the phony "Marlos" in evangelism. But the message is not phony. And the messenger who is called of God is not phony. And there is no other message for the God-called messenger but the message of a personal redemption through faith in a revealed crucified and risen Son of God. No man is called of God to preach a social gospel!

I fear for the lives of the people who mock and ridicule God's Word, God's work and God's workers. I also fear for the phonies. I know that God delights in mercy. But He will not be mocked.

We may not take life, death or eternity seriously, but we had better take God seriously, tread softly on His territory, take off our shoes in His presence and reverence His Name and work.

Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

"The Church in Mexico is divided. It is middle class, liberal, politically militant. But there are also Catholics who are living in the 18th and 19th Centuries. There are strong groups playing prophetic roles. There are bishops who stand for the people, for labor unions, for student groups."

"North Americans" — especially the people of the United States — have been "brainwashed," he believes. "I lectured at a university here, and I was shocked to find how little the students know of the world we live in.

"North America is not realistic. It is still geared to the Cold War. I cannot see how North America can be Christian under its capitalistic system." He was quick to point out that he was not talking about individual Christians but the system.

The collapse of the imperialistic capitalism of North America, Europe and Japan is inevitable and immediate he believes. "The United States," he said, must go back to its original prophetic role and utopian ideals. You must become involved with humanity and freedom. The system must collapse!"

Hatred for "North

Americans" is intense in many parts of Latin America, he said. "I have been harassed in slum districts as a 'Gringo' because of my light-colored hair. Mostly the people are courteous. But there is a saying in Mexico, 'God is so far and North America is so near.'

to the Communist Party, a feeling which was intensified after a brief visit to Russia. The bigoted rigidity of the Communists, he believes, destroys the goals of socialism.

"No matter what their politics may be, the Mexican clergy have always treated us with the utmost friendliness."

Father Vanderhoff belongs to no political party. "Parties won't solve our problems. Only people can solve problems," he said.

He is strongly opposed

Brolin has hard time finding catchy name

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — James Brolin, Robert Young's co-star on the "Marcus Welby, M.D." television series, is forming his own production company but he's stuck for a name.

"Maybe you can help."

"I should run a contest," Brolin suggested in frustration. "I've been trying to come up with a good corporate name that would have some significance for me and the people who see our movies."

Show business corporate names aren't as simple as in the old days of Universal, Warner Bros., Fox, MGM and Paramount.

TODAY John Wayne's outfit is "Batjac," and Pat Boone's is "Coogamooga." Steve McQueen's company is "Solar" and Clint Eastwood's is "Malpaso." "Sundance" belongs to Robert Redford. Burt Reynolds has "B.R."

"Maybe 'Coogamooga' has some meaning for Pat Boone but it doesn't make sense to me," said the series, darkly handsome Brolin who has moved from television to movies with "Skyjacked" and "Westworld."

"I'd like to have something plain and simple like 'The Movie Co.' But it's already registered to Peter Bogdanovich. The outdoor sounds of 'Santa Fe Productions,' 'Cougar Productions' or 'Stagecoach productions' appeal to me. But then everyone would think I was doing only westerns."

"I thought about 'Nickelodeon Company' and 'The Great American

Bonito run at pier

800 happy kids fish for prizes at rodeo

By DON CULPEPPER

Staff Writer

There were more than 800 happy kids on Belmont Pier for six hours Friday morning and fishing in the 19th annual Kids' All-City Fishing Rodeo was the best that it has been in years, at least on the rodeo day.

The fish cooperated. There was a good run of bonito; more than 160 were caught. Even the barracuda made a brief appearance. The sky was overcast and nobody went home with a bad case of sunburn.

When the rodeo ended just before noon, it was found that the bonito run had created a boy and girl champion. The girl, Anette Caberto, 13, came all the way from La Puente to take home the girls' top trophy, a handsome award from The Independent, Press-Telegram. Her fish weighed 3 pounds, 4½ ounces.

Tom Payne, 15, of 2033 Delta Avenue, Long Beach, took the I.P.T. trophy for the largest catch by a boy. His fish weighed 3 pounds, 9 ounces. Tom also got a trophy from the Southern California Tuna Club for the largest bonito.

Among the other winners of trophies was little Cheri Outlaw, 10, who was given the Belmont Pier Trophy for being the most enthusiastic angler on the pier. Cheri didn't make the list of cup winners as she has in other years, but it was not because she didn't try.

Cheri has won eight previous trophies and prizes. She got her first one when she was just four years old and is one of the most consistent anglers on the pier. Her mother died when she was a baby, and she is being reared by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Forest McElwain, 1805 E. 53rd St.

SHORE PARKING CHAIRMAN ELECTED

Jerry Maximiner, president of Belmont Shore Business Association, has been elected chairman of the board of the newly created Belmont Shore Parking District.

The district is bounded by Second Street, the east-west alley south of Second Street, La Verne Avenue and Claremont Avenue. It plans to construct a parking lot between Glendora and Pomona avenues, immediately south of the east-west alley.

RICHARD SHULSE, a businessman in the district, is the vice chairman. Other board members are attorney Thomas Griffin, Mrs. Helen Hockney, a resident of the district, and Ted Isaacs, owner of a business within the district.

Initial terms of board members, determined by

Forum on heart attack slated

A free health education forum about recovery from a heart attack will be presented twice next Tuesday at Doctors Hospital of Lakewood, 3700 E. South St., Lakewood.

Sessions will be at 1 and 7:30 p.m. in the hospital's basement conference room.

of C. J. Johnson

lot Thursday, will be one year for Griffin, two years for Mrs. Hockney and Hulse, and three years for Maximiner and Isaacs. All subsequent terms of board members will be three years.

The board agreed to meet monthly, at 9 a.m. on the first Thursday, in the community room of Great Western Savings and Loan Association, 5200 E. Second St., with the annual meeting and election of officers in August.

Randall G. Verrue, city director of budget and research, told the board the city already is in process of buying one of the four lots which will be required for the proposed parking lot. It is paying $38,000 for property at 184 Glendora Ave.

The city will be reimbursed for the expenditure from district funds, after the district sells bonds to finance the parking lot and its operation.

Revenues from parking meters in the Belmont Shore business area, since May 8, are being placed in a special fund to help finance the parking district, plus any new parking districts created in the Shore, Verrue said.

Board member Griffin asked if any consideration has been given to leasing existing, private parking lots in Belmont Shore.

VERRUE SAID this has been discussed, but no policy has been set, and said he thought the City Council would be looking for recommendations from the parking district board on this matter.

Formation of any additional parking districts would come from petitions submitted to the city by property owners of such districts according to Deputy City Attorney Edward Bennett. Whether the existing board would govern such districts would be a policy decision of the City Council, he said.

10-speed bike taken

Long Beach Police said Friday burglars who pried a garage door behind the home of David L. Hauser, 530 Los Altos Ave., took a ten-speed bicycle valued at $110.

Nonresident plea Lower bus rate hearing for aged set

By DON BRACKENBURY

Staff Writer

Requests to extend the reduced senior-citizen fare on Long Beach buses to non-residents of the city and to eliminate the "statement of income" from applications for the permits will be heard Monday by the Bureau of Franchises.

The bureau will meet at 9:30 a.m. in the council chambers of Long Beach City Hall.

In a letter to the bureau, Constance Chalmers, director of Senior Opportunities and Services, 406 E. First St., said their office has had about 50 reduced-fare applications returned by Long Beach Public Transportation Co. because the applicants did not live in Long Beach.

The SOS letter said this policy is causing a hardship for many senior citizens "over such a minor detail."

LOUIS POSSNER, chief engineer of the bureau, said "residency, income requirements and the like are very confusing to many senior citizens."

"It is difficult to justify them in the face of their argument that the reduced fare allows senior citizens to come into Long Beach for shopping and professional services," Possner added.

In some of the cases, he said, the individual "lived and paid taxes in Long Beach for many years and still has many ties to the city."

Expanded pool program asked

An increased program at the outdoor pool of Belmont Plaza Olympic Pool is requested in a petition to the Long Beach City Council, signed by 120 persons, and on the agenda for Tuesday.

The petition contends there has been "a continual increase in the demand" for use of the pool, and says it is not now used to its "fullest effect."

Two requests are made in the petition: to provide additional qualified teachers and to schedule two classes per pool at 10 and 11 a.m., noon, and 1, 2 and 3 p.m.

Rooftop 'sniper' only grade BB

Ten Long Beach police cars and 20 officers converged on a West Ocean Boulevard hotel Friday after a motorist reported a man on the roof of the building was shooting at passersby with a pistol.

Traffic along the boulevard was blocked off west of Locust Avenue while a task force of officers entered and searched the Adobe Hotel, 141 W. Ocean Blvd. In one of the rooms, Officer Gary O. Elkins found a 14-year-old boy who admitted being the "sniper" and led Elkins to the weapon—an air pistol closely resembling a .45 caliber automatic pistol in appearance.

The 6-foot, 160-pound youth was brought to police headquarters and placed under a temporary hold for firing a BB gun in the city limits. Police said he would be released in custody of his father, who lives with the boy at the hotel.

Burglars steal diamond earrings

Burglars who forced the bedroom window of the home of Linda Grace James, 1501 Cedar Ave., took diamond earrings valued at $160, Long Beach police said Friday.

WHAT'S HAPPENING
A reminder of admission-free events in the Long Beach area.

up with something, so I lined up with the post and started digging.

Mrs. Creekmore, of 3714 E. Walnut Ave., Orange, said she struck paydirt at 9:10 a.m. while digging at the east end of the peninsula near 72nd Place.

SHE SAID she had been closely following the treasure hunt clues, which were published daily in the Independent, Press-Telegram.

The eccentric housewife said she plans to split the money with her twin sister, Mrs. Bruce Mason, of 2260 Tevis Ave., Long Beach, who helped her decipher the clues.

Though the Mystery Pirate had actually prepared 11 clues leading to the buried treasure, Mrs. Creekmore, a 34-year-old housewife, said she second-guessed the pirate by deducing the information in clue No. 11 before it was even published.

"I just followed the first nine clues to 72nd Place," she said. "But it took me at least 10 minutes to mark off those 132 paces (clue No. 9), because I was so excited I kept losing count," she added.

"When I counted off the 132 paces, I happened to notice this post over there, and I knew it (the treasure) had to be lined up.

James C. LaPan, the 12-year-old Long Beach boy who survived a 66,000-volt shock July 22 while playing hide and seek near a Southern California Edison Co. substation, was reported in critical but stable condition Friday at Orange County Medical Center after receiving skin grafts.

Police said the boy was shocked when he touched the live wire after scaling two fences to get inside the substation grounds.

Nurses in the center's burn unit said it would take five days for doctors to determine whether the grafts were effective.

They said the boy, whose home is at 145 E. Canton St., has remained in critical condition since he was admitted. He suffered second and third-degree burns over 60 per cent of his body.
